Dedication

On On On On through the Open Door

Tarheels by the thousands enter as never before
New horizons beckon, beckon both young and old.
Join with the hosts who are seeking the truth
Be your quest for fame or gold.
Come join the ranks of the Cavaliers, who proudly
Wear the Blue and Gold.

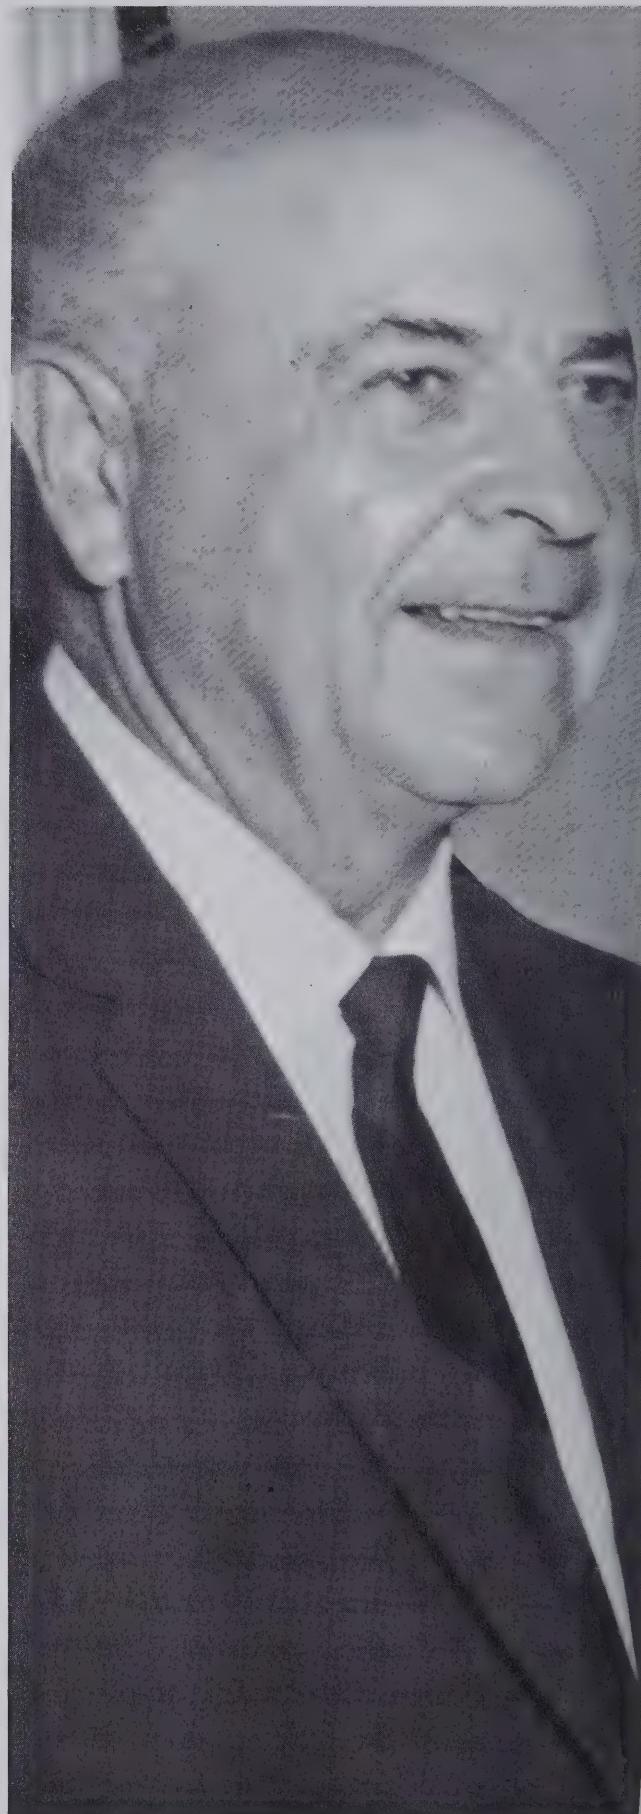

These, the words of our Alma Mater, were written by the late William Taylor Sinclair, Dean of Instruction of Davidson County Community College, who also composed the musical setting. They are for those of us who knew him tangible evidence of an intangible legacy.

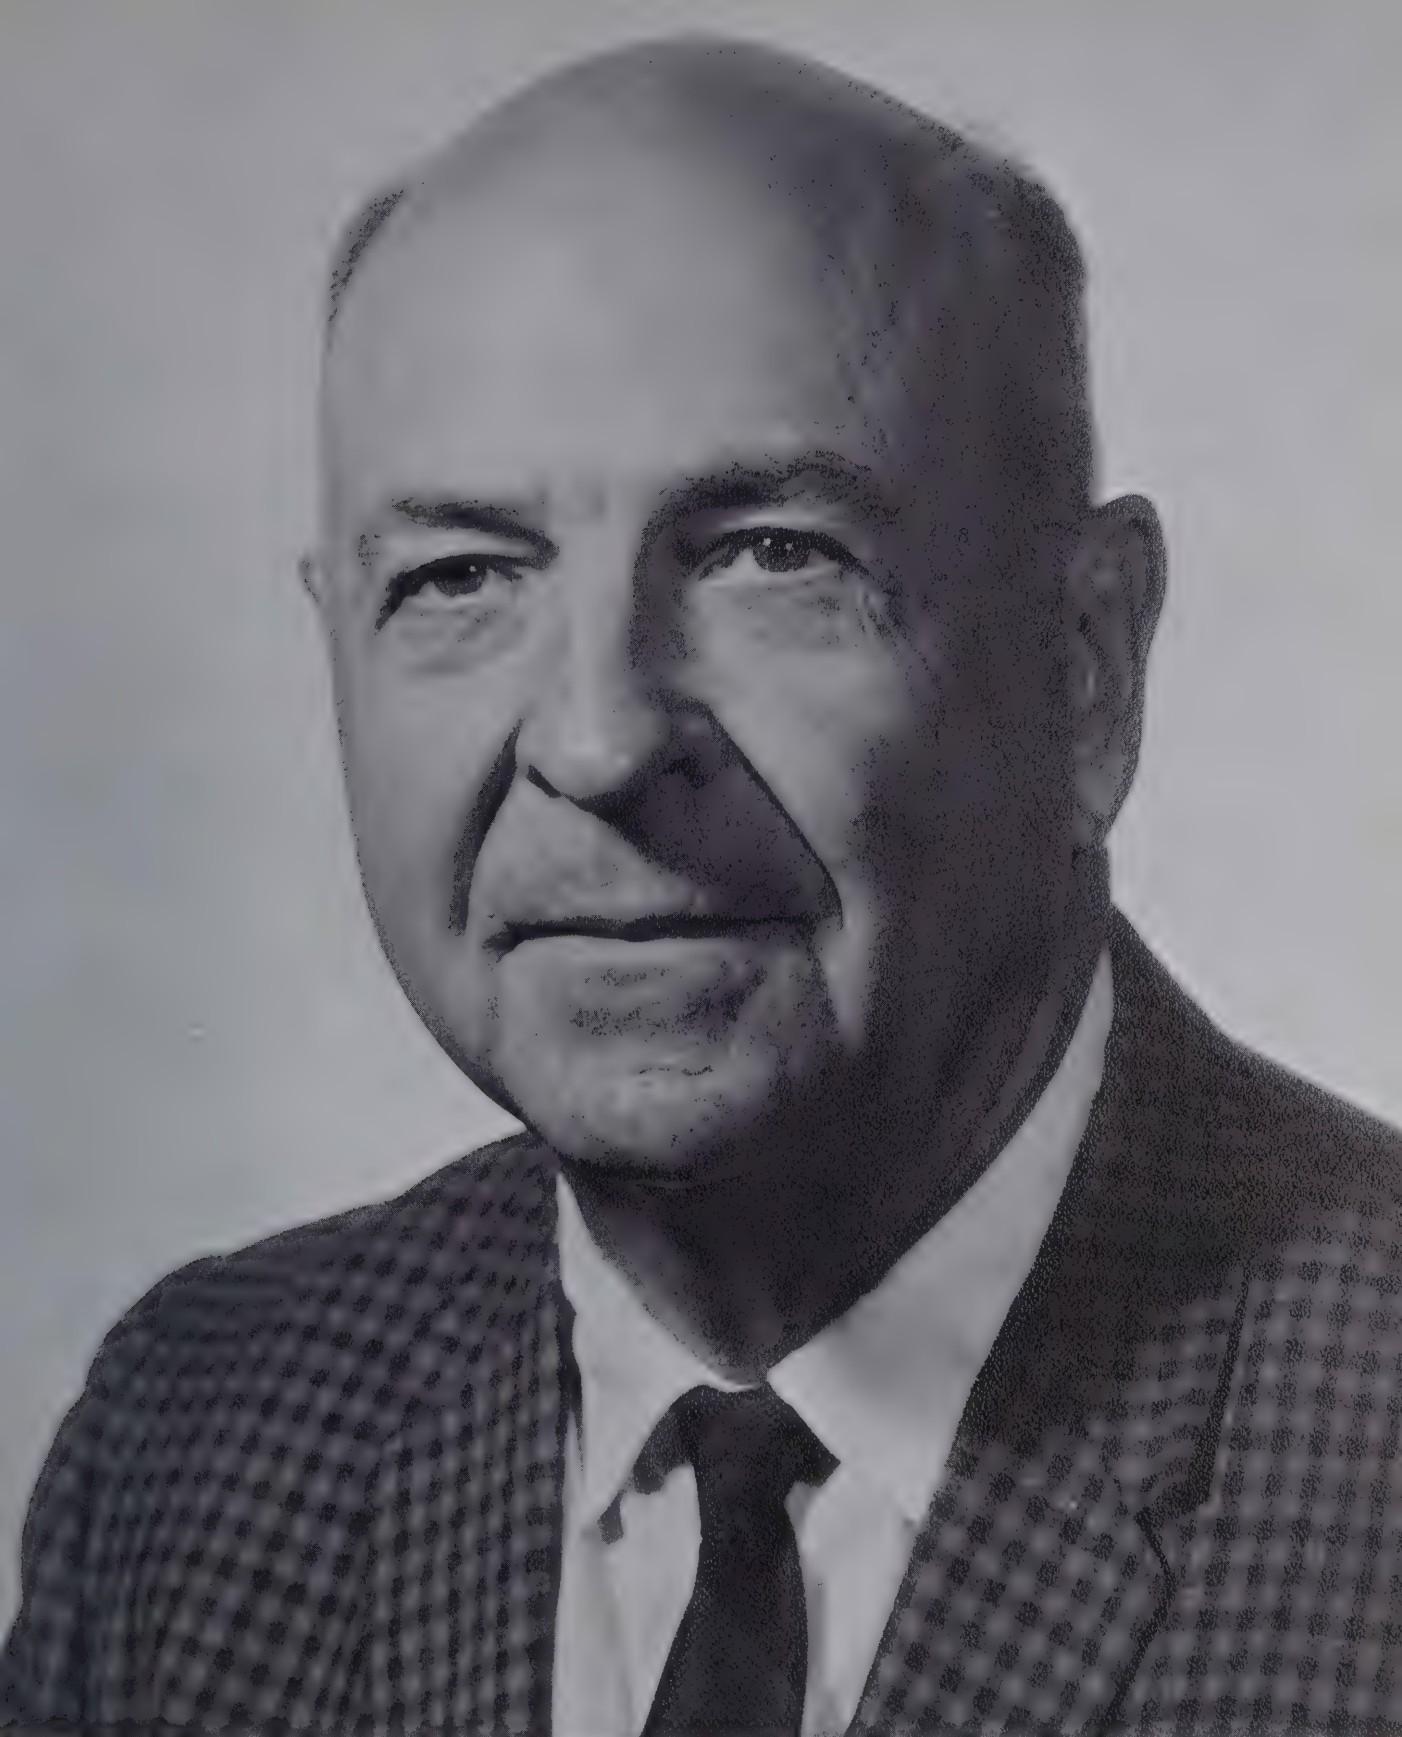

Dean Sinclair was the founding father and President of the Davidson County Industrial Education Center, the initial stage of Davidson County Community College. From the time of the organization of the junior college, he served as Dean and as instructor of music.

A self-effacing man, Dean Sinclair left the spotlight to others. Faculty and staff called him "Dean," though he often asked to be known simply as "co-worker." Many called him friend.

William James wrote, "The great use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it." Dean Sinclair's life will go on, for he invested it in human beings—the gifted, the average, the deprived. Students at DCCC were aware of the sincere personal interest he took in each of them.

Never demanding more than he himself gave, Dean Sinclair left his mark upon us. It is therefore with grateful remembrance that we dedicate the 1969 CAVALIER to William Taylor Sinclair.

Campus Life

Student Government Association

The objective of the Student Government Association is to regulate matters of the student community which do not fall under the direct jurisdiction of the administration. The SGA also provides democratic student government, promotes responsible citizenship, and encourages and supervises student organizations and activities.

Corresponding secretary Peggy Nobles diligently prepares her SGA notes.

Sophomore Officers

Resting from various duties are Anne Deaton, treasurer; Gail Saintsing, secretary; Jim Kenney, vice president, and Diane Fouts, president.

Besides setting examples for their fellow students to follow, the sophomore officers busily fulfill their demanding responsibilities.

Sophomore Senators

Fred Roberts, John Jenkins, Bruce Gallup, Ray Davis, and Pat Davis provide leadership for sophomore students.

In an effort to promote better relations between administration and students, sophomore senators discuss matters pressing the SGA.

Striving for Freshman Class goals are Teresia Neeley, treasurer; Robert Batchelor, vice president; Vickie Matthews, secretary; and Wade Brown, president.

Freshman Officers

These students were selected by their classmates to be leaders and organizers. Planning important functions, collecting money, and directing meetings for the benefit of the students are all a part of the responsibilities of the freshman officers.

Freshman Senators

Senators participate in SGA voting procedures.

These sophomore students, chosen for their scholastic ability, assist freshmen with various problems and difficulties in studies. Left to right, front row: Cynthia Windsor, Dianne Fouts, Linda Younger, Joyce Swicegood, Gayle Davis, Janice Sink, Ray Davis. Second row: John Jenkins, Thomas Long, Walter Humphries, Brady Hendren, Ruth House, Dean Roach, advisor.

Dr. Sink, an advisor of the newly formed science group, explains a complicated experiment.

Science Seminar

Another advisor, Mr. Caudill, discusses plans for the next demonstrations.

Students listen attentively to a guest speaker on stereo-chemistry.

Mrs. Alice Bevan, advisor, and Cynthia Windsor, editor, brief the staff on features of coming issues.

Commuter Staff

Getting out a student newspaper may be fascinating or frustrating, but never dull. Now completing its third year of publication, the COMMUTER, medium of communication and voice for student opinion, takes its place as an integral phase of college life.

Chris reviews assignments and deadlines.

Cynthia praises the staff for the success of the latest issue.

Co-editors discuss the use of certain pictures.

Cavalier Staff

The CAVALIER staff began preparations for the yearbook early in the fall. With the aid of the student staff and cooperation of the faculty, unforeseen problems were faced and overcome. Deadlines were met after long hours of work—planning layouts, taking pictures, and writing copy.

Staff members search previous yearbooks for new ideas.

Jesse Ball faithfully renders his services as photographer for the CAVALIER.

Young Democrats

The Young Democrat Club supported and campaigned for Democrats in this area. Enthusiastic and optimistic, they attended rallies, put up posters, and spoke persuasively for their candidates.

Victory? Maybe not, but united we stand.

Young Republicans

The Young Republican Club provides an opportunity for students to share a common political philosophy. This year the club became more active in political functions to spread Republican ideas.

Janice Sink, president, discusses plans for the elections with Mr. Gillespie, club advisor.

Circle K

Circle K, Davidson's service club, had many projects during the year. They collected clothes for the needy and emphasized elections and safety. Sponsored by the Lexington Kiwanis Club, the Circle K is their link with the college.

Phi Theta Kappa

visor, Mr. Ronald Oakley organized the chapter of Phi Theta Kappa at Davidson Community College.

Phi Theta Kappa is a national scholastic honor society founded in 1918 to recognize and encourage scholarship among junior college students. Members are selected on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership, and citizenship. In founding a chapter of Phi Theta Kappa in 1969, Davidson County Community College formed a scholarship link with more than 400 other junior colleges across the nation.

Janice Sink, Walter Humphries, Jim Kenney, Richard Cantor, Theodosia Jackson, Harold Coward, Brady Hendren, Charles Clinard, Levon Hopkins.

Ray Davis

Pat Davis

Diane Fouts

For their personality, service to the school, leadership ability, and academic standing, these students are honored as our Top Ten. They were selected from College Transfer, Technical, and Vocational Divisions.

Inter-racial Council

Cynthia Windsor, Joan Hargrave, Jim Price, Herbert Harris, Evans, Larry Davis. Standing: Rodney Windsor, Douglas Holz, Dedee Payne, Wally Armstrong, Dennis Ashe.

The Inter-racial Council was formed in 1969. Initial action in establishing the group was taken by black students, who promptly welcomed all those interested to participate, regardless of race.

The Inter-racial Council serves as a means for dialogue among people of all races. It seeks to promote understanding and mutual respect among all students.

In affirming the purposes of the Inter-racial Council, members decided that the president and vice-president of the group would come from two different races.

Mr. Gillespie, advisor; Mark Hart, vice-president; Ellis Evans, treasurer; Mary Hairston, president; Dedee Payne, SGA representative; Rebecca Hubbard, secretary; Mrs. Williams, advisor.

Miss D.C.C.C. - - - Gail Saintsing

One picture is worth a thousand words... No explanation is necessary as to why Gail Saintsing was chosen Miss DCCC. Besides being pretty, Gail has a warm personality and friendly smile which draw her many friends.

Miss DCCC's brother, Robert Saintsing, serves as her escort.

Gerald R. Carter, Director.

Chorus

The sounds of happy young voices harmonizing float from the auditorium. It's twelve o'clock, any Tuesday or Thursday. The College Chorus enriches all campus life, with selections prepared for formal occasions and informal folk singing by The Undergraduates.

"The Undergraduates"

Accompanist, Susan Eagle. First row, left to right: Linda Barringer, Nadine Foster, Diane Welch. Second row: Lynda Kirkman, Mary Bean, Cathy Ward, Phyllis Phillips. Third row: Gail

Police Fraternity

The emblem of Lambda Alpha Epsilon, law enforcement fraternity, consists of a web, a star, and a pair of scales, with the initials of the Greek words for detect, apprehend, and prosecute, signifying the three-fold duty of law enforcement agents. Members of Lambda Alpha Epsilon seek a realization of their objectives through knowledge of the arts and science of law enforcement.

Administration and Faculty

President of the College

Dr. Grady E. Love has been the guiding force in the development of Davidson County Community College, inspiring and directing its growth from technical institute to a full fledged junior college. The year 1968 saw a milestone passed, the formal accreditation of our institution as a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. It is fitting that during this year Dr. Lov leadership was recognized on a state level when he was elect Chairman of the North Carolina Association of Public Commun College Presidents.

Board of Trustees

To the Board of Trustees goes the task of making the idea become reality, of grappling with problems of finance and public relations. Here is where it all begins to take shape.

A long-anticipated goal in the history of the college was attained when John Blackman, assistant to the director of the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges, presented the college charter. Seen at the official ceremony of presentation are, left to right, Felix Gee, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Mr. Blackman; President Grady E. Love; Student Government Association President Levon Hopkins.

Dean of Student Affairs

Dean H. Herman Roach, Jr., is probably known to more students than any other staff member. All activities involving the student body—dances, picnics, organizations, publications—originate in his office.

Linda H. Kennedy
Secretary to the Dean of Student Affairs

Much of Dean Roach's work is done on an informal, person-to-person basis.

Dean of Instruction

Dr. William E. Inabinett, registrar until his appointment as Dean of Instruction, has shown a remarkable grasp of the total instructional program. Faculty and students alike find him receptive and helpful.

Dr. Inabinett and Mrs. Hoover plan to set up the new quarter schedule.

Lola H. Hoover
Secretary to the Dean
of Instruction

Dr. Roy K. Patteson
Associate Dean for the College Transfer Program

Sports

Cheerleaders

No basketball team is complete without cheerleaders behind it. The cheerleaders were newly organized this year. They have worked hard supporting the team and boosting school spirit. Spreading publicity about games, supplying food for the players, and encouraging the team's confidence were just a few of the activities of the cheerleaders.

Cheerleaders encourage student participation at pep rallies.

Third row: Gail Saintsing, Diane Welch, Bunny Young, Lynda Kirkman.

These bouncy cheerleaders lead yells at a pep rally.

Anne Deaton, Chief Cheerleader, adds an extra spark to the cheerleading squad.

Basketball

The basketball team fared well considering it was their first season of competition. Although they started off slowly, they pulled up to a 6-11 record near the end of the season. During a winning streak the team won five out of six games and four in a row.

David skillfully dribbles the ball.

Kevin goes up for two.

Another important basket counts.

Improving defense as well as offense is an important part of practice.

Ron lays it in.

Teammates surround co-captain Denny Hayworth.

Basketball

Another technical on Steelman?

The boys scrimmage in practice and work steadily on new plays.

Coach Beaver goes over plans for the night's game.

Golf

Although the golf team is not yet in intercollegiate competition, they are showing exceptional promise. With the capable supervision of Mr. Farthing, the team perfects a smooth, skillful game.

First row: Levon Hopkins, Hilton Jones, Bob Smith, Jim Kenney.
Second row: Mr. Farthing, Mike Barger, Bill Witt, and Thomas Armstrong.
